Wedding Photography

by

Michael Lichterman

As the first choice of discriminating Clevelanders since 1906, Clifford Norton Studio has set and maintained the highest standard in both portrait and event photography for over a century.

Our Philosophy:

Rather than controlling every detail of your event, our objective is to create a pictorial story that captures the beauty, emotion and joy of the wedding day activities with as little distraction from family and friends as possible. By combining those essential individual and group portraits with photographs of the spontaneous events of the day, Clifford Norton Photographers seek to keep the joy and excitement of your special day alive for decades to come with images that will be as beautiful and meaningful in thirty years as they are when first viewed.

The Finished Photographs:

Our staff controls every detail of the finished photographs, working with the lab to meet the highest standards for composition, color, clarity and finish. Each print is sealed with a fine lacquer finish to preserve the beauty of the image for many years. A variety of albums are available to meet your most discriminating needs and the final album design and assembly gets the same personalized attention from our photographers as do the finished prints.

Presentation of Images:

After the ceremony and reception has ended, the energy and excitement settled, choosing photographs from the event becomes a revisiting of the day itself. An appointment needs to be made for selecting images at the studio. Photograph choices for albums and individual prints prepared for preservation becomes the final step in maintaining the exceptional record of your beautiful event. Since digital files allow for viewing of images on screen and uploading selections onto our website www.cliffordnorton.com, family and friends may also experience viewing the beauty of your day. Plan to spend two or more hours selecting your favorites. Once you have selected the images for your album, Michael will work collaboratively with the bride to design an album that reflects her unique vision of her wedding day. Final choices are printed and professionally prepared with digital retouching and color corrections. Your photographs and albums are presented with careful attention to details and customers concerns.
